

Vince Wade is a veteran television news investigative reporter and documentary producer. He spent most of his career covering crime and corruption in Detroit, Michigan. Wade is the winner of twenty reporting awards including three Emmys and the 1st Place award for Best Local Television News Documentary at the New York Film Festival.

Wade, a native of Texas, began his career in radio news. As a TV reporter he broke the news that former Teamsters boss Jimmy Hoffa was missing. For years Wade reported extensively on drugs and drug murders.

Wade is a member of IRE—Investigative Reporters & Editors.

Picture of book, profile, and contact information